

BROOKLYN EDUCATOR DIES.

James Fife Wilson, Chairman of the department of history of the Boys' High School, Brooklyn, died yesterday at his home, No. 532 Eastern Parkway, following an illness of more than a year. Last Tuesday his request for retirement was granted by the Board of Education and on Wednesday he was voted full pay from April 2 until his retirement took effect. Mr. Wilson became ill from overwork in September of that year. He had to give up the following month.

He was graduated from the Illinois State Normal University, the London University and the New York Law School.

This Soldier's Sick Feet Cured
by Dr. Mayer's Scientific Method
IF YOUR FEET ARE SICK

Dr. H. Mayer, 517 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N.Y.
Dear Doctor: Possibly you will remember me as the man who was recommended for treatment by a Captain in the Medical Corps of the U.S. Army. I was sent to you first, thinking it was safe to be subjected to surgery, but after your treatment I was told that I must go to another doctor. After my return to the U.S. I was again sent to you, especially after my experience in three hospitals, one where they would not even touch my feet, and subsequently I was forced to return to them. You have cured my feet entirely, and subsequently gave a virtue to rheumatism in the legs. Thank you, Doctor, and often think "Thank You, Doctor." Very truly yours, (Signed) PETER J. KOHNREICH.

NEW BILL LIMITS
FOOD STORAGE TO TWELVE MONTHS

President's Suggestion to Adopt Jersey Plan Rejected by House Committee.

object to the Evening World.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—After several weeks of delay the House Committee on Agriculture has reported a bill regulating cold storage warehouses urged by President Wilson in his message to Congress on the cost of living. Instead of adopting the New Jersey plan, suggested by the President, the committee claims to have evolved a measure that is virtually new.

Storage of foods for human consumption, except liquid foods, is limited to twelve months. All such foods are to be clearly labeled "cold storage warehouse" and the date of storage must contain the date when they were put in and taken out and the names and locations of warehouses. This will apply to original packages, it is said, and not to small lots handled by retailers. Members of the committee claim State laws are necessary to regulate the sale of goods reaching their destination.

The bill protects farmers, restaurants and retailers by a provision that the term "warehouse" shall not apply to "an establishment or structure or portion thereof used exclusively for the storage for the sole use of the occupant, owner or manager thereof, or his family or guests, (a) for consumption by himself, (b) if his business of serving meals or (c) in connection with his retail business only."

A fine of $1,000, imprisonment for one year or both are penalties prescribed for violating the law.
